Halloween Dance Being Planned by S. C.

On Tuesday, Oct. 3, the social committee of the Student Council met at 1 p.m. to plan a Halloween Dance. The committee consists of Ray Tobias, Vince Chiaro and Liz Szelestey, from the Calumet Center. Nurses include Mary Beth Sopko and Agnes Scofield from St. Margaret's Hospital, and Jane Moylan from St. Mary Mercy in Gary.

Rehearsals For Play Festival

After much debate, accompanied by several headaches, our student directors are proud to announce that two of the three one-act plays have been cast and rehearsals are well under way.

The first play, "The White Dove," by Lennox Robinson, concerns the tragic story of a young bull-fighter and his lovely senorita. It is being directed by Dale Wagner. The cast includes:

Mama RosaNovelene Yatsko
MariaMary Lu Skafish
JaunDale Wagner

The second play, "The Bald Soprano," is a satire on the English middle class by Eugene Ionesco. The cast under the direction of Margaret Frechette includes:

Mr. SmithRichard Kelley
Mrs. SmithMargaret Frechette
Mr. MartinErnest Roth
Mrs. Martin Madeleine Freehette
Mary, the maidLiz Szelestey
The Fire ChiefJohn Kruzan

It is to be noted that the student directors are members of the Fundamentals in Acting class and are experimenting with the dual task of directing as well as acting in their respective productions.

Dr. Dean will direct the third play which is entitled "If Men Played Bridge as Women Do." This hilarious comedy, written by George S. Kaufman, will be performed by several faculty members who have yet to be selected.

In addition to these productions, the Rensselaer Campus has been invited to participate in the festival. However, such plans are still indefinite.

Students as well as friends and

Although these people comprise the official membership of the Social Committee, much credit is due to honorary members Jim Repko, Dan Lowry and Christine Chandler who were a great help with the Indian Summer Dance.

The Halloween dance will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 31, at St. John Panel Room in Whiting, from 9 to 1 a.m. It was decided to make this a costume dance in order to provide more variety in activities. The committee used last year's "Roaring '20s" party as a precedent. Awards will be given for the most original costume, the most elaborate costume and the funniest costume.

A band has not yet been decided upon. Various local groups are being looked into at the present time. As soon as all details have been arranged, they will be printed in SHAVINGS and posted in the halls.

A donation of $1 will be asked. This will pay for the hall, band and awards. The remainder will be placed in the diminishing Student Council treasury.

The success of this dance will determine the reality of any future plans the Student Council might have. YOU must show your interest by participating in the activities presented to you; otherwise, they will be dropped altogether. These activities are for you; their success and continuation depend upon you. If you are dissatisfied with the activities offered, say so! Speak your mind to any of the committee or Council members. They will be more than happy to obtain new viewpoints. So far this year, your support has been very gratifying. Let's keep up the good work.

relatives are invited to attend this evening of one-acts which will be presented on Nov. 18 at 8:00 p.m.

RECENTLY, THE U. S. MARINE Corps sent recruiters to the Center. It seems as though Ray Golarz (left) may be interested.

Marines Approach St. Joe Students

The U.S. Marine Corps had recruiters at the Center Oct. 17 and 18 explaining their officer training program to all those who were interested.

The recruiters explained that the Marine officer training program is open for college undergraduates. The Platoon Leaders Class (PLC) is open to qualified male college freshmen, sophomores, or juniors, and to high school graduates who have been accepted for college enrollment. Marine leadership training consists of two summer training periods of six weeks each. There are no drills, military classes or other formations during the regular school year and the PLC will receive his commission as a second lieutenant upon graduation from college.

Each summer hundreds of U.S. college men are selected to go to Quantico as candidates in the Platoon Leaders Class. Training during the summer sessions is exacting and rugged. PLCs learn the rudiments of leadership, gain proficiency in the science of military tactics, marksmanship, and amphibious operations.

After being graduated from college, they return to Quantico to participate as officers in the 6-month basic course. A college senior or graduate may enroll in the Marine Corps Officer Candidate Course.

Elections To Start Today

Today is the beginning of the end for the candidates who are campaigning for freshman class officers. In a couple of days the candidates will know whose campaign program was the most convincing. It will be disheartening for the losers, but they can still serve their class and their school by taking part in all activities that will be beneficial to the entire student body. For the winners, it will be a happy occasion, but one which entails a responsibility which cannot be shrugged. Being a good class officer involves much more work than most people realize. Anyone can be an officer, but not many can be good officers. By being elected an officer, a student becomes subject to praise and also to criticism. Praise will come to the officers who do their job adequately, and criticism will come to those who do an inefficient job.

The newly elected officers will be expected to work with the Student Council, other class officials, and especially with their classmates. The freshman officers will be confronted with an immediate problem: an empty class treasury. One of their first tasks will be to build up their treasury.

Every freshman has a responsibility, as do the officers. They should not permit their officers to become lax in their job. It is their duty to see that the officers represent them in the correct way. The frosh will soon have a voice in the student government; they should make use of it to the fullest extent. Being a non-interested student is as bad as being a non-interested officer.

This is the chance for the freshmen to get their class off on the right foot. Don't make this a popularity contest. Make this an election that will secure the best for you.

Engaged

Former SHAVINGS editor Joe Parot, and typist Barbara Przybysz are engaged to be married on Jan. 6, 1962. The wedding will take place at St. Florian's, Hegewisch, at 11 a.m. The reception will be held at 6 p.m. at Wojta's Hall, Hegewisch.

News From Our Alumnae

Patti Scholl became the first graduate of St. Joseph's College Calumet Center, June 4, 1961. She received her B.A. degree in English and speech, her combined major, on the Rensselaer campus.

Mr. and Mrs. James Scholl are now awaiting the arrival of their baby which is due on Oct. 30. Both hope for a girl. "Actually," admitted Patti, "I don't have too much of a preference, but my husband really wants a girl." The Scholls are now residing at 6828 Magoun Avenue, Hammond. Mr. Scholl is a pharmacist at an East Chicago drug store.

Although Patti conceded that she misses going to school, she also admitted that it was nice to be able to take more time out for things that had been slighted while attending classes. She now has more time to devote to her home and husband and to making preparations for the baby. She made it quite emphatic, however, that she had no regrets concerning attendance at college.

In a few years, Patti intends to start her teaching career as a substitute in the elementary grades. Although her courses were directed toward high school teaching, she feels that elementary education would take less preparation, and she would be able to devote more time to her family.

As for any further education, Patti is still hesitant. She would be required to work towards a master's degree in order to teach on the secondary level. She hinted that her husband was contemplating returning to school. "If he goes back, then I certainly will," she explained. At any rate she feels that there is enough of a demand for teachers at the present time to enable her to teach elementary grades.

Editorial

This week's "Roving Reporter" asked the question, "What can we do to improve SHAVINGS?" Approximately 60 students answered the question. Quite a few of the replies lead me to believe that the students do not pay close attention to our newspaper. Some of the improvements suggested were: "Have a column devoted to the faculty"; "Have some sort of column giving little tidbits occurring around the lounges and in the corridors"; "Get students into the news"; "Create student morale"; "Print news of the different clubs," and so on. These improvements were actually suggested, and each of them is a regular part of the paper.

There were many good suggestions, and we are open to all constructive criticisms. The staff realizes our paper is not perfect, but we would like to see it come as close to perfect as possible. SHAVINGS reflects every staff member, and also every student at the Center, so we want it to be a paper we can be proud of.

One of the suggestions submitted was to have a mailbox for student articles. This is a very good suggestion, and all articles written by students not on the staff will be taken into consideration. If anyone would like an article in the newspaper, it should be deposited in the SHAVINGS mailbox, located in the main office, by noon on Friday. The articles must bear the author's name. All letters to the Editor should be taken care of in the same manner. SHAVINGS is a media of communication for the students and faculty, and we should make use of it by voicing our opinions in letters to the Editor. Surely someone must have some opinions concerning the Center and its functions; if no one has any opinions, it is a very poor reflection upon us.

The staff of SHAVINGS thanks those responsible for the many kind words about the paper, and we hope to do the kind of job that you want us to do.

Meet the Faculty

Father Cletus G. Kern, C.P.P.S., M.A., Associate Professor of Philosophy and Chairman of the Division of Religion and Philosophy, had been teaching at Rensselaer for seventeen years prior to his appointment as Assistant Director and Registrar of the Calumet Center.

Entering the Society of the Precious Blood at the age of 15, Father Kern attended St. Mary's Novitiate in Burkettsville, Ohio, and later St. Joseph's Academy in Carthage.

He was ordained May 6, 1937, after attending St. Joseph's College and St. Charles Seminary in Carthage.

Following his ordination, Father Kern went to the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C., where he received his M.A. in philosophy. He taught philosophy at St. Charles Seminary until 1940, when he went to St. Joseph's.

In addition to his teaching duties at St. Joseph's, Father Kern directed the News Bureau for one year. He was registrar from 1943 to 1950, and from 1954 to 1959 was rector of Xavier Hall. He is a member of the American Catholic Philosophical Association and the Indiana Philosophical Association.

Transfers Express Opinions of C. C.

Question asked some of the transfer students:

What is your opinion of St. Joseph's College?

KATHY MULLANEY—Clark College, sophomore, Elementary Education major—

"There is a friendlier atmosphere at St. Joe's. I find it much easier to understand the teachers, because of their broad-mindedness I have many more opportunities to study."

DIANNE MILLER—Xavier College, sophomore, Elementary Education major—

"The teacher's presentation makes you want to do more outside studying. There is a pleasant attitude at St. Joe's which leads to more studying. The teachers are more concrete and further advanced in their philosophy of teaching."

LARRY SUTER—Indiana Calumet Center, sophomore, Marketing major—

"The method of teaching at St. Joe's is much better because of the higher standards. There is a friendlier atmosphere and better facilities for study here. I believe the reading room is a definite advantage."

JOHN PEIRICK—St. Norbert College, sophomore, Sociology major—

"Due to the fact that I am only carrying six hours, I like St. Joseph's. If I were carrying a full-time load, I would find it confining. The faculty and the personnel are friendly. There is a close relationship between student and teacher."

STRIKES & SPARES

The Ten Pins roared from fourth place to a tie for first place. They smashed the Pin Tumblers three straight games. The Alley Angels snapped a five game losing streak by thumping the first place Maple Maulers two out of three games. This enabled the Tin Pins and Alley Wreckers to move up to a three-way tie for first place. The Wreckers took two out of three games from the Gutter Dusters. In the first game the Dusters broke a six game losing streak.

Charlotte Hatcel did it again! She broke the record for high game which she set two weeks ago. She rolled a 157 game. The previous high game was 154. Charlotte also set a record for high series which she also held. She had a 431 series which was 58 pins higher than the previous 373 which she set two weeks ago.

Dave Relinski led the male bowlers with a high game of 206 and series of 490. Harry Bigda was runner-up with a high game of 183 and a 488 series.

Seymour Doolittle Speaks

Hi, fans! I've seen many things lately. I am seriously considering calling this column "True Confessions"; that's what it might well be for some of our fellow students. This news is for your relaxation and not to make your hair curl—so enjoy yourself; for some of you it might be later than you think!

- It's been rumored that the problem of Foreign Aid was solved in speech class Tuesday night. What about it, Dr. Dean?
- Joe Craven, aided by a cat, changed a flat tire on Airport Road last week. I heard he was a big help, Joe! Black, maybe?
- Have you noticed Kathy Mulaney's hairdo—I did! What's the verdict from your beau on it, Kathy?
- Can you imagine? Paul Larson's favorite class is Music Art Forms—good luck, fellah!
- How are you going to spend your prize money ($2.00), Larry? Don't spend it all in one place.
- Have you noticed the new light fixtures in the main office and the bookstore? They don't need them in the classrooms because the students are so bright.
- Mid-terms are upon us! Better dust off the books and start studying.
- What did the plumber tell your father when he called for assistance, Bunny?
- Think! What is YOUR motive for learning. Knowledge for the sake of knowledge, or for a grade?
- Kitten Evano spent the weekend in Ohio. Bet you had a ball, Bernie.
- Just have to mention some of our football greats—"Blackeyed Buddy," Tom "The Truck" Ser-tich, "Crusher Cook," "Killer Kick," and "Stomper Golarz."
- Flash! Andy Frain ushers land biggest job of career. Andy Frain says, "This will be my first time in the Coliseum but I think I can handle the Keilman-Crazen wedding."
- A word of praise to the student body for the splendid cooperation shown so far this year. Keep up the good work.
- Freshman: did you know
 - that smoking was once permitted in the reading room?
 - that we had a mascot for one day: a puma-type kitten?
 - that the basement was once filled with water and old boxes?
 - that the pros used to have to compete with carpenters?
 - that the upstairs lounge and faculty room were once classrooms?
 - that last winter the students wore their coats to class?
 - that there was a time when you could study in the lounge?

rines offered a good program, they did not talk anyone into enlisting. It seems that the Army is getting our boys; the latest to get papers from the Selective Service Board are Buddy Nowicki and Bob Trgovich.

- that this building was once a furniture store?
- that the C.C. used to be across the street?

Why is it that Father Smolar's office is always so popular? Could it be the free eats or just a swell personality?

Even the office crew are taking courses now. Welcome to the flock, Miss Peto (Francine), and Mrs. O'Toole!

How come everything is on Joe Modjeski's shoulders?

Does anyone have an extra car key? Dan Lowry's car hasn't moved since the hay-ride!

BILL WIDES thinks his car is a submarine. He was seen driving it in a water-filled ditch the night of the hayride. Lucky that some good samaritans stopped and clued Bill in.

CAUTION: "I see-more and do-little."

Athletic Assoc. Holds Meeting

The first official meeting of the officers of the Athletic Association was held Oct. 2. Present were Joe Modjeski, president; Dan Lowry, vice-president; and Bill O'Malley, treasurer. Jocelyn Kissela, secretary, was unable to attend because she had to work.

It was decided to continue the intra-class football games as long as the students remained interested. The football games are to be held every Sunday at Kosciusko Park. We have permission from the East Chicago Park Dept. to use this field every Sunday afternoon throughout October and November.

President Modjeski said he hopes to obtain permission to use the McKinley school gymnasium again this winter. Last winter our students had the privilege of using the gym three nights a week to play basketball. If there is enough interest, an intramural league can be started. This league can also become an intra-class league if the majority of the students so desire.

BILL O'MALLEY suggested that we do not try to get E.C. Washington's gym this year. Last year, the gym was obtained for the co-eds to use, but the turnout was not sufficient. If it so happens that the girls are interested this year, then possibly we can get the gym once again.

A notice will appear on the Bulletin Board giving the date of the next meeting.

ACTION IN ONE OF THE FOOTBALL GAMES that have been played between the classes.

Marszowski Scores Winning Touchdown

Kosciusko Park was the scene of another hard-fought football game, Sunday, Oct. 8. A team comprised of juniors and seniors edged a team consisting of freshmen and sophomores by a score of 6 to 0. Last week the sophomores held the freshmen to a 19 to 19 tie.

The frosh-soph team kicked off to open the game. After failing to gain enough yardage for a first down, the seniors punted and the frosh-sophs had their chance. They lost the ball on downs. During the first half the frosh-sophs were constantly in senior territory. The half ended with the score 0 to 0.

Halfway through the third quarter, the senior line opened a tremendous hole and Bruno Marszowski bulled his way through the secondary and ran 30 yards for a touchdown. The extra point failed.

Late in the fourth quarter Russ Marcinek made a spectacular run to the senior 5-yard line. Here the big senior line dug in and held the frosh-soph and took over the ball on downs. They then ran out the clock.

Even though there wasn't much scoring, the game was enjoyed by all who participated and by the few spectators who were present. These games add to the color of the extra-curricular activities at the Calumet Center.

Roving Reporter

The question asked this week was: "What suggestions do you have to improve SHAVINGS?"

Jerry Horvath, freshman—"Where are the comics and Ann Landers?"

Patrick O'Rourke, sophomore—"It is one-hundred per cent improved over last year. All the improvements I could think of have been made. I especially like 'Meet the Faculty.' There should be articles written by faculty members on current events. Thus we can get an intelligent opinion."

Sandy Salczynski, freshman—"I feel that there should be a section on the amusing situations that arise in school and on extra-curricular activities and more candid opinions stated."

Madelaine Frechette, freshman—"I think that a clever cartoon in each weekly edition of the paper would be a good idea."

Constance Perry, sophomore—"SHAVINGS has been most satisfactory for me. It is informative and entertaining. However, I'd like to see more editorials and personal columns, from our faculty as well as student reporters, which are informative in nature."

Lynette Green, sophomore—"To improve SHAVINGS, more student activity pictures could be taken. This could be done for elections so all students will have the opportunity to know the candidates."

Nan Hedinger, sophomore—"So far, I think the SHAVINGS staff has done a fine job. SHAVINGS is interesting, concise, and the photographs are a definite asset. The Roving Reporter is the first thing I turn to. It's always fun to hear the candid opinions of fellow students."

Bonnie Belaskas, freshman—"SHAVINGS doesn't need improvement. It is very satisfactory to me. A school newspaper is to deal with student activities or just any news the students would be interested in. SHAVINGS has met this requirement with utmost justice. SHAVINGS tells about the faculty, which I believe is quite important."

Novelene Yatsko, freshman—"A column for the students similar to the one which introduces teachers would be informative and interesting. Perhaps it could be a resumé of one of the members of the Student Council or some other interesting personality."

Dennis Vojvodich, freshman—"I think SHAVINGS is a vast improvement over last year. This year it consists of more than one side of a paper. SHAVINGS has covered all events that have happened or that will happen in the near future. This is good for the students."

Roberta Gabrys, freshman—"SHAVINGS can be improved with a feminine touch on fads and fashions that are current in school. A more interesting gossip column might keep the students jumping."

Good Turnout at Hayride

Approximately 75 people turned out for the hayride held on Oct. 7. Most of the students were from the Center, but a few came from the campus in Rensselaer, a few nurses came from the hospitals, and several were guests of St. Joe's students.

The ride started at 8:30. The itinerary comprised several country roads and also several side streets in Munster. Remains of the ride were to be found wherever the wagons went; such things as shoes, hats, hay and students were constantly being tossed from the wagons.

On two of the wagons, rollicking free-for-alls continued from beginning to end. Joe Modjeski, who drove one of the trucks, made a very interesting observation: the truck was controllable without a driver. At one point, Joe decided to take part in the festivities and jumped out of the cab of the truck. Talk about excitement!

The ride lasted for two hours and then the group returned to the campfire determined to devour the hot dogs, potato chips, and cider waiting for them in the trunk of Dan Lowry's car. What a surprise when Dan announced that he had lost the keys to the car. Never let it be said that such a little thing as that stopped anybody from St. Joe from having a good time. Several "car-wreckers" proceeded to remove the back seat of the auto, and then Bill "Peanut" O'Malley climbed into the trunk and opened it from the inside, saving all the famished guests. Thank you, Bill.

The reason that the wagons were so crowded is that there were many unexpected guests who came at the last minute. The sophomore class officers express their thanks, and hope that the students keep up the high spirit.

Men On Mars?

Are there men on Mars? is a question all of us have heard, but never gave any real thought to.

Mr. Swanke, Instructor in Philosophy, has developed a theory concerning this question. As he explained to one of his classes September 28, he intends to prove that it is impossible for human life to exist on another planet.

His reasons? They are as follows: God became man to redeem all men from original sin. Adam was the first man; therefore, any other men are marked with the stain of original sin, and must be redeemed. We were cleansed of original sin through Baptism, and people on other planets could not possibly have had use of the Sacraments because they were not instituted until after the universe was created.

Also, we know that no one could possibly have traveled to another planet since the institution of the Sacraments, let alone before them. Thus, God may have placed life on other planets, but not human life.

Meet St. Joe's Student Teacher

St. Joseph's Calumet Center has due right to be proud of all its student teachers, but this week we would like to put one certain one in the spotlight—Ruth Pitts, a resident of Gary, Indiana. For the past five weeks she has been a student teacher of the kindergarten at the Beveridge Grade School, Gary. She teaches two sessions, one in the morning from 8:20 to 11:00, and another from 12:05 to 2:50. A total of 88 children in the two sessions really keeps Ruth on her toes. As she stated, her job is to teach these kindergartners games in order to help them adjust to school life and work cooperatively. All this is done under the supervision of Mrs. Constance Hill, her capable coach.

Ruth began preparing for her college plans when she first entered high school at St. Mary's Academy in New Orleans, Louisiana. She was valedictorian of her class at St. Mary's.

After graduation she entered college with intentions of becoming an elementary teacher, but she changed her goal and entered St. Mary's Infirmary, St. Louis, Missouri, where she studied to become a registered nurse. After graduating from St. Mary's, Ruth still had the desire to become a teacher. To fulfill this main goal, she again enrolled in college in hopes of receiving her degree in teaching. In just a few short months her schooling will be completed and her lifetime desire fulfilled.

When asked why she wanted to become a teacher after having completed nurses' training, she replied, "I decided to become a teacher because I feel I can serve humanity best in that profession. Now my

Accident After Hayride

It seems that Bill Wides got used to bouncing around while on the hayride. After the hay-ride, on the way home, Bill "bounced" his car right into a ditch, which was filled knee-deep with water. Fortunately, neither he nor any of the passengers in the car were injured. A few minutes after the accident, two carloads of St. Joe students passed by and stopped to give Bill a hand. After pushing and pulling for about five minutes, they were able to get the car back onto the road, and safely on its way again. Even though Bill was grateful for the helping hand, he explained it wasn't necessary for the other students to help, because two of his passengers, "Bull" Miller and "Muscles" Mullaney, had volunteered to pull the car out of the ditch.

Future Teachers Hold Meeting

The Future Teachers Club, starting their second year at Saint Joseph's College, held their first meeting of 1961 on Oct. 6, at 6 p.m., in the second floor lounge. The club is completely reorganizing its system. It plans a wide scope of activities for the coming year.

The club moderator, Mr. Melavage, stated that the name of the club will be changed. At the first meeting a committee was appointed to select several names for the club. A vote will then be taken to determine the new name.

The officers for this past year—Ruth Szot, Liz Szelestey, Ruth Kaspar and Joselyn Kissela—took nominations for new officers to be elected at a later date.

Included in their plan of activities for the coming year are the formation of professional, social, cultural and constitutional committees. The officers have divided the club into two sections for those who are interested in elementary education and for those interested in secondary education. With such a division each member will be able to pursue his goals in his specific area.

It has been decided that several guest speakers will be invited to address the club. Also, plans are being made to permit the members to observe classes on their specified levels in various area schools.

The date for the next meeting has not been determined as yet, but it will be announced in SHAVINGS prior to the meeting. All students contemplating a career in teaching should join this club.
